Buffaloes
BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information
Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 15.—There are now no less than 7,000 buffaloes in North America. They are increasing rapidly and America's most famous characteristic large animal is considered to be fairly safe from extermination.

This news was brought to Washington recently by Dr. George W. Field of the biological survey, who has charge of the government's several buffalo ranches, and of all its other big and animal reservations.

The buffalo has long figured in the popular mind as a creature practically or nearly extinct. He has been classed with Dodo, the great Auk and the highball, as a thing of the past. "Gone with the way of the buffalo and the passenger pigeon" is a standard oratorical and literary bromide implying irretrievable oblivion.

It has been multiplying. For the last 20 years, while he has been serving as a pathetic example of man's ruthless destructiveness, accounts of his extermination were being written and while his likeness was being stamped on the nickel that Americans might know what he looked like, the buffalo has been steadily multiplying. By attending strictly to the business of raising calves, and paying no attention to the alarming rumors that he was extinct, the buffalo, as a species, has literally crawled out of his grave.

There was a time, within the memory of living men, when there were more buffaloes in the United States than there are now people. In 1883 there were quartered in Lost Park, Col., the last members of the last wild herd of buffaloes outside of a national park in the United States.

At that time there were not many more than a thousand buffaloes alive in the world. These were scattered in small herds in public and private parks. The only wild ones were in Yellowstone national park.

When the species of animal is reduced to a thousand individuals, scientists generally give up hope for it. It is regarded as practically extinct. And specially is this true when many of the individuals are old and most of them are in captivity.

But a great deal of interest was felt in the fate of the buffalo. He was one animal that the people knew about. He had been extensively depicted and described. Buffalo Bill had chased his buffaloes and shot blank cartridges at them in every town over 10,000 in the United States. The buffalo had been sculptured and painted and stamped on coins. In a word, he had gotten the thing which in America is the maker of destinies—advertising.

The scientists of the biological survey, who watched and nursed him all day long, finally believe that advertising saved his life. It led rich men to buy buffaloes and found herds. It gave popular support. It saved the most beautiful animal in America from neglect, of which he would surely have died.

Publicity was important. As showing how important publicity has been to the buffalo, the scientists compare him with the prehistoric antelope. There are now only about 9,000 of these animals in the United States, and they are far more beautiful and of extermination than the buffalo. Although slightly more numerous, they are not nearly so well protected and do not live and breed well in captivity. The federal game warden has made for them, and other radical measures taken for their protection, they will be gone in another 10 years.

And the antelope is just as distinctive and interesting an animal as the buffalo. It once lived all over half the continent in uncounted millions. It was the familiar daily sight of the western pioneers. And it is a far more beautiful and of extermination than the buffalo. Yet for some reason it failed to impress itself on the popular imagination as the buffalo did, and so it is doomed.

In addition to his hold upon popular affection, has another strong claim to the right of survival, in the fact that he has great possibilities as a domestic animal.

It has been usual to say that the buffalo had to go to give way to the cattle herds on the western plains, and it is probably true that he has been indirectly displaced by the horses of the cowboy.

Excelsior, the Duke of Devonshire, governor general of Canada, immediately went out on the cruiser to extend greetings.

G. O. P. SENATORS FOR RATIFYING

Daylight Bill Repeal Again Vetoed

PRESIDENT IS RELUCTANT TO SAY NO

FIRST MEASURE IN MEMORY OF CONGRESS TO BE TURNED DOWN TWICE.

FARMERS' VIEW IS WEIGHED

Considers Majority of Claims Favor Extra Hour As Most Advantageous.

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Wilson today vetoed the bill repealing the daylight saving law. The president said he returned the bill without approval because he realized "the very considerable and in some respects very serious inconveniences to which the farmers of the country are subjected."

Declaring the pressing need of the country was for production by industry, the president said he had been obliged to "balance one set of disadvantages against another" and decide which was the most serious for the country.

The president's message was sent to Speaker Gillett, but when an effort was made to present it to the house, Representative Blanton, democrat, Texas, made a point of no question and the house adjourned without the message being read.

This was the second time the president had vetoed the repeal of the law. The first veto was announced weeks ago. The first veto was attached as a rider to the annual agricultural appropriation bill.

White House officials and members of congress could not recall today a previous instance of a president having twice vetoed the same bill. (The president's message vetoing the bill follows.)

I return this bill, H. R. 3854, an act for the repeal of the daylight saving law, without my signature, but in so doing I am not endorsing it. I realize the very considerable and in some respects very serious inconveniences to which the farmers of the country are subjected, and who have distinguished themselves during these recent years of war and want by patriotic endeavors worthy of all praise.

But I have been obliged to balance one set of disadvantages against another and venture a judgment as to which were the more serious for the country. The repeal of the daylight saving law would mean a decrease in production, increased and increasing production in all lines of industry. The disorganization and dislocation caused by war have made it necessary to increase production and in the many industries to which the country and the whole world must look to supply needs which cannot be ignored or postponed.

The daylight saving law is of most service. It ministers to economy and to efficiency. And the interest of the farmer is not in all respects separated from these interests. He needs what the factories produce along with the rest of the world. He is profited by the prosperity which their success brings about. His own life and methods are more easily adjusted, I venture to think, than those of the manufacturer and the merchant.

These are considerations which have led me to withhold my signature from this repeal. I hope that they are considerations which will appeal to the thoughtful judgment of the house and in the long run to the thoughtful judgment of the farmers of this country who have always shown an admirable public spirit.

WEIGLE SAYS GO SLOW ON STORAGE EGGS

Madison, Aug. 15.—George A. Weigle, state dairy and food commissioner, today wired Attorney General Fallon, suggesting the withholding of orders placing storage eggs on the market until eggs can be handled without danger of spoiling.

LET'S GET BUSY

A city is a living thing. It's life depends on it's human element. No city can be greater or better than its people. To realize to the fullness its possibilities a city must be a desirable place in which to live and to be a desirable place in which to live contented home life must obtain.

No family can be content if the rental cost is prohibitive. The man who earns $3 or $4 per day, and it is this class of which cities are largely composed, cannot afford to pay $25 to $35 per month for rent and maintain his credit and dignity in the community—his own personal respect.

It is the worker, the class just referred to, who forms the very backbone of our cities; it is the worker who makes possible the continuance of industry. It will be the worker who will make possible a greater Janesville and he cannot be retained here if induced to come, if homes within his means are not provided.

This shortage of houses for rent is a serious—a vital—situation. Janesville is being watched by industrial eyes to determine if here is present a spirit worth becoming a part of. Houses can be built for $2,000; the cottage type of comfortable dwelling is possible to secure if we but make the effort.

The row house, familiar in eastern cities, makes possible a low cost home and is a good rental investment. The ready-cut house is another way out. During the war this type of construction made good in a big way. The ready-cut house provides a quickly built house at moderate cost.

One hundred men can erect ten average-sized family ready-cuts in a day. Let's get busy.

H. C. L. ACTION IS BLOCKED IN SENATE

Washington, Aug. 15.—Action on amendments to the food control act suggested by Attorney General Palmer as a means of reducing the high cost of living was blocked in the senate agriculture committee today. Senator Harrison and General Palmer, republican, Missouri, declared the committee will act finally Tuesday.

The house agriculture committee proceeded with its hearings. Members of the house have been summoned to the front for the purpose of early action on this and other legislation. In the senate committee, Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, urged that the committee act immediately, but his motion was defeated. 4 to 3. Capt. Smith, South Carolina, Smith, Georgia, Ranssall, Louisiana, democrats, and France, republican of Maryland, voted against the motion. Senator Smith, South Carolina, Smith, Georgia, Ranssall, Louisiana, democrats, and France, republican of Maryland, voted against the motion.

Before the house committee today, John D. Miller of New York, representing the National Food Administration, urged that farmers or organizations be exempted from provisions of all laws regulating prices or controlling the distribution of food-stuffs.

ROMANIAN PROMISE TO STOP REQUISITIONS

Budapest, Wednesday, Aug. 12.—As a result of the first day's conference between the inter-allied commission, Constantine Dimescu, and General Margharos, commander of the Rumanian troops here, a promise was made by the Rumanians that they would cease requisitioning food in Budapest and certain other localities. Capt. Thomas C. Gregory, chief allied food administrator in central Europe, appeared before the conference and said he would no longer assist in requisitioning food in Hungary if the Rumanians were going to requisition it.

"If the Rumanians will not leave, I am going home," he declared. Many roads leading from Budapest to the frontier are lined with families fleeing from the city. The Rumanians are charging five thousand crowns for issuing passes for leaving Budapest.

Patrol Called to Carry Off Nickels; Suspect Held

Chicago, Aug. 15.—When police today arrested Frank Boyles, Sioux City, Iowa, in the robbery of a bank at Dempster, S. Dak., they found several thousand dollars worth of nickels piled on the floor. It was necessary to call a patrol wagon to remove the coin to a police station.

The bank at Dempster was held up August 2 by bandits who escaped with $60,000. George Remi, a Dempster policeman, trailed Boyles from Dempster to Sioux City and then to Chicago. Boyles will be taken back to Dempster.

She Plays in Comedy

Miss Tallulah Bankhead, the 17-year-old daughter of Congressman Bankhead, has been selected out of 150 candidates to play the leading female role in a special organization which is to present the comedy "East is the place for me" at the White House Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock. The entrance of Miss Bankhead into the historic world was unusual. She sent her photograph to the White House company which was having a beautiful girl contest and was chosen from a score of entries to play the leading part in a picture. The company had a hard time locating her, because she had given a fictitious name on her photograph. Her most recent appearance on the screen was with Tom Moore.

MORE PRODUCTION GREATEST FACTOR TO LOWER COSTS--REED

Washington, Aug. 15.—High cost of living is the result of operation of fundamental and immutable laws and lower living costs will come, to a large degree, only from operation of these natural laws, Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, declared in an address in the senate today. Many of the remedies being proposed to reduce living costs, Senator Reed asserted, are futile because they are artificial and designed to disturb the operation of natural economic tendencies. The end of the strike opens the way for the international officers of shopmen to obtain action by the railroad administration. Shopmen have demanded 55 cents an hour for skilled workers and 60 cents for helpers.

"We are glad that the matter is settled," said General Agent A. L. Hemmings today. "Though the inconvenience caused us considerable inconvenience we were able to keep traffic moving."

SHOPMEN'S STRIKE ENDS; MAJORITY GO BACK TO JOBS TODAY

One hundred and fifty railroad shopmen who went on strike here nearly a week ago will all be back at their posts by 8 o'clock tomorrow morning, shop officials declared today. The entire shop force of the C. & N. W. returned to work at 1 o'clock this afternoon. About half of the C. & N. W. force was scheduled to return at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with the remaining number going back tomorrow morning.

First Hundred Thousand Recruits Are Secured

Washington, Aug. 15.—The "first hundred thousand" recruits have been secured for the permanent regular army, General March, chief of staff announced today and of these more than 55,000 were enlistments. It is estimated that an average of five of every 100 men discharged from the temporary forces since the recruiting campaign have decided to rejoin the army.

WALLS OF IRISH CITY MANNED BY TROOPS

Londonderry, Ireland, Aug. 15.—Troops manned the walls of Londonderry today for the first time since the historic siege of the city in 1689 as part of the military effort to prevent the nationalist and Sinn Fein "lady day" demonstration, a procession planned for today. The demonstration has been forbidden by the British commander. Orangemen and unionists, it is said, have declared their determination to remain in the city and to hold the parade which they termed anti-British.

W. H. Blair, architect of this city, is now drawing plans for a brick building to be built in Edgemoor. The building, a two-story, will be built of Henry street, a few doors from the Carlton hotel, by William Schrubbs. Part of it will be a garage, and the rest will be used for a pool-room and a billiard room.

Tourists From All Over Go Through Here

The touring season is now at its height, judging from the number of cars from Illinois and other states that pass through here daily. The majority of the tourists are headed for northern Wisconsin, to the Lake region. They report the roads fairly good, although some of them struck muddy roads.

By watching the licenses on the cars that pass through the business streets, a great variety can be seen. Janesville seems to be on the direct route to the northern lakes. The following number and variety of cars have been seen to pass through Janesville from the morning of August 12 up to this morning: Illinois, 78; four each of Ohio and Iowa, three of New York, two each of Missouri, Pennsylvania, Indiana and Michigan, and one each of Georgia, Texas, New Mexico, California, and Florida.

The record could be kept of the Wisconsin tourists, but a great many go through here going both south and north.

PUBLICITY TO MARK SENATORS MEETING WITH PRESIDENT

Washington, Aug. 15.—Stenographic records will be made of the conference between President Wilson and the senate foreign relations committee before the White House Tuesday for discussion of the peace treaty. The president said he would have a stenographer present in order that the committee might have a full and trustworthy record of what is said, and suggested that the committee also have a stenographer present.

Wilson Writes to Lodge. The president's letter to Senator Lodge said: "I have received your letter of yesterday and in reply hasten to express the hope that the senate committee on foreign relations will give me the pleasure of seeing them at the White House Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock."

"I also welcome the suggestion of the committee that nothing said at the conference shall be regarded as confidential. In order that the committee may have a full and trustworthy record of what is said, I shall have a stenographic reporter and take the stenographic record of what is said, and suggested that the committee also have a stenographer present."

The meeting will take place in the blue room of the White House and it was expected that the stenographic reports of the conversations would be made in relays so that transcripts might be had for the press every few minutes.

ARMY BLANKETS ARE OFFERED FOR SALE

Washington, Aug. 15.—The war department offered for sale to the public today its surplus supply of wool, cotton and mixed fabric blankets, of which approximately two million are now available for sale. The blankets, which will make them directly available to the ultimate consumer. It was announced that instead of 20 or 25 blankets as was originally planned, the public may buy one or more blankets up to the limit of one bale.

In addition to distributing the blankets between and through sales centers, they will be made available to other committees through bulk sales to municipalities. The prices run from $6 for new all wool blankets to $1.25 for reclaimed cotton blankets.

QUICK END TO TREATY PARLEY, SEEN

20 REPUBLICANS INFORM DEMOCRATS THEY STAND FOR SPEEDY ACTION. RESERVATIONS ARE PART OF PLATFORM. Amended Terms Agreed To If Pact Could Be Brought Out of Committee.

Washington, Aug. 15.—More than 20 republican senators are ready to stand for quick ratification of the peace treaty with reservations, democratic leaders in the senate were informed today by leaders of the republican group of reservation advocates. Republicans favoring reservations said a poll disclosed that upwards of 30 senators favor the treaty with reservations along the general lines laid down by the seven republicans if the treaty could be brought promptly out of committee and ratified on the floor.

Move Threatens Plans. Although Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, the administration leader, still disclaimed any part in the negotiations for a settlement, it was apparent that the move had reached proportions which might threaten the plans of the committee for calling additional witnesses and prolonging consideration of the treaty.

Senator Hitchcock had an appointment to see President Wilson at the White House late today and was expected to lay before him the whole senate situation, especially as regards prompt committee action. The administration leader declined to say whether he would suggest a change in the amended stand of the administration against reservations.

Break-Up Seen. The possibility of a breaking up of the whole senate situation was evinced by the fact that negotiations between democrats and republicans today were of a far more direct character than those which have been in progress during the past few days. The main floor, where the high cost of living was under debate, was alive with private conferences among senators on the reservation problem and in the cloak room, where many hurried exchanges. It was said that later today the reservation republicans might have a general conference with a view to some more definite expression of their views with regard to pressing the treaty out of committee.

Senator Hitchcock told the committee several days ago that unless there was some prospect of an early report independent of the action of the floor of the senate might be expected. In this stand he is understood to expect the united support of the twenty-five or thirty republicans included in today's poll.

INNER JAPANESE.

"What manner of folk are the Japanese?"
"What sort of Gods do they worship?"

"What kind of laws do they have?"
These are a few of the questions the western world is asking in view of the universal interest aroused in Japan's controversy with China about the Shantung concession, says a bulletin from the National Geographic society.

By way of reply the bulletin quotes from a communication to the society by Baron Kontaro Kamekura, written before the world war gave rise to these controversial questions as follows:
"The Japanese have a peculiar character. When they come in contact with a foreign civilization they always go through three stages of evolution. First, they pass through the stage of imitation. At this period they imitate everything that comes from a foreign source, and they say that they blindly copy. But after some years of imitation they arrive at the stage of adaptation: then at last they reach the stage of origination. These three stages are clearly shown by our history, if we only examine into the inner workings of the Japanese mind.

"About 1,500 years ago, when we introduced the Chinese civilization into our country, we copied everything after Chinese fashion. At that time we had no national alphabet. There were some sorts of signs to express ideas in writing, and even these signs differed in different parts of the country. The Chinese had a highly developed type of hieroglyphics to express their ideas; therefore at one time the Chinese hieroglyphics took such a hold on the mind of the Japanese that we adopted them as our national language.

"The period might be called the era of imitation. Fortunately there came a scholar, Mahe, who returned from China in 735 A. D. When he came back he saw what was most needed in his native country, and he invented out of the Chinese hieroglyphics the 47 characters of our alphabet, founded upon the principle of phonetic language.

"We have passed through three stages in our religion just as much as in our literature.
"Buddhism was first introduced into Japan through Korea in the year 552 A. D. At first Buddhism was embraced by the higher classes, particularly among scholars and monks, but the lower classes of the people still clung to their old faith of Shintoism.
Those who believed in Buddhism went so far as to copy the ceremonies and rituals. The doctrine of Buddhism was written in the Chinese language, and the believers offered their prayers in that tongue.

"At one time Buddhism made such a stride as to become almost a state religion, but the common people still opposed it with a determination to hold their own Shintoism. Consequently a most terrible struggle broke between the two religions—Buddhism in the hands of the upper classes, and Shintoism in the hearts of the common people. Such a contest as this blocked every step in Japan's development, but finally the state and priests began to realize that they no longer could force upon the people a blind imitation of Buddhism, and they changed their policy and tried to find out some means to meet the requirements of the time. Here again we reach the stage of adaptation.

"They invented an ingenious theory of explaining and interpreting the religious principle of Buddhism. They adapted the theory of Monotheism as well as Polytheism by saying that there is only one supreme power, which is personified in the form of various gods and goddesses, according to the different countries and different institutions. Thus they reconciled the principle of the one supreme power in Buddhism with the Poly-theistic theory of Shintoism.

"In the beginning of the thirteenth century there was one priest, Shinran, who is considered the founder of the Japanese Martin Luther. He revolutionized the fundamental principle of Buddhism by a new doctrine, for up to that time Buddhism strenuously upheld a monastic life, and the priests were compelled to live in celibacy and abstain from eating any animal food. But this famous priest, seeing the popular mind already turned away from Buddhism, started a new doctrine that a priest, being as just as much susceptible as laymen to love and abstinence from human wants is against the laws of nature; moreover, a priest must live among the people so as to understand the real nature and feeling of man and woman; therefore a monastic life should be given up and priests should eat animal food and get married. This new doctrine was a great relief to the people, and from this time the progress of Buddhism with this new doctrine looked complete hold of the popular mind."

WHEN ACTORS STRIKE.

Actors in New York are on strike.
It is indeed a novel situation when folk who regard themselves as artists go so far as to make use of the services of agitators and organizers, to picketing and engage in the customary tactics of industrial warfare.
The actors' chief grievance lies in the fact that the producing managers ask them to work without pay during the rehearsal periods, running from three to eight weeks for each production, and to give extra matinees on holidays and other special occasions without additional pay. The actors ask half pay for rehearsal periods, and pro rata full pay for any performances beyond eight a week.

On the face of things, it would appear that the actors are asking for nothing unreasonable. The world knows of the hard times many actors have in getting through the summer and living through the period of tedious, nerve-debilitating rehearsals. The hardships that have resulted when the new production closed its doors in two weeks, leaving the cast jobless in a time when new parts were hard to get, are known to all.

During the past two years the theater managers have been coining money out of the patronage of the prosperous. Now the actors want a little better deal for themselves.
The managers complain most of the new Actors' Equity association, claiming that it is dominated by trouble-making agitators, who are happy only when stirring up discord.
This is an unusual sort of strike,
and the outcome will be interesting.

NORTHERN GIRLS.
"It astonishes me how you northern girls go all over the country alone and how you get out and do things," said the man from Mississippi to a Janesville woman traveling on a Chicago train the other day.

"Why, our girls down south can't do that. My sister couldn't go out and buy her own ticket without getting all mixed up," he continued with a note of admiration for the northern independence.

"A southern girl wouldn't let me talk to her either, the way I am doing to you," was the next thrust. "If I would ask her a question, she would lift up her chin, and reply, 'Beg pardon, but you have made a mistake.'" Thus the southern man in a northern land summed up the difference between the petted and pampered child and the child placed on its own responsibility. As the child has been the stage of the colored mammy days when every child of able parents had its path laid clear for it.

The child of the north, of whatever rank in life, is more and more thrust out to fight its own battles and to clear its own path. The pampered child is becoming the exception.

Fearlessness, confidence, stick-to-itiveness, is shown, the nerve to do things, is rational towards which the modern American child is being led.

As a man he has decision, strength of character, and self-reliance. As a woman, she doesn't have to sit back and let someone else do it for her.

In the appointment of Viscount Grey as temporary British ambasador to the United States, Grey is expressed in London circles of a sane, steady, and firm grip on the reins of international problems arising. Lord Grey is pledged to do all in his power to improve, wherever improvement is necessary, the relations between America and Great Britain. Although Viscount Grey has been out of active service of late on account of disabilities, he has continued his grasp of the problems before the world today.

No eulogy, no ball-bearers, no formal ceremonies marked the funeral rites of the late Andrew Carnegie.
These facts stand out in marked contrast to what has been done in the past in the death of multi-millionaire, the late John D. Rockefeller, philanthropist in the expression of his burial wishes, again demonstrated that he was a man, not a wealth dis-player, a humanitarian, not a hoarder.

The undertaker is the only one getting a business thrill out of the H. C. period, according to the city health director of New York. High costs of living are wrecking the health of the nation's poor and lowering the standard of living, he says.

Speedy action on the disposal of the peace treaty was urged in the senate by Senator Hitchcock, who said the public is tired of congressional dilatory. We agree with Senator Fall that undue haste is unwise, but what about undue delay?

State Comment
"James A. Frear, the Wisconsin representative, when he is not heading off pork barrel raids is using his ability and statesmanship in pushing the national budget proposition.
"His advocacy is based on two great grounds: First, that a national budget system would help to prevent waste and extravagance in appropriations. Second, that it would release a great deal of legislative energy for useful services.

"Under the current method of handling the nation's business, through a multitude of committees, Mr. Frear maintains, a large percentage of the personnel and effectiveness in congress is absorbed in the task of preparing the appropriations and is not available for service in the field of general legislation.

In support of his position, Mr.
Frear points out that there are 14 committees in the house alone with "appropriation power." They have about 200 members. As a considerable part of the time of each committee is devoted to studying appropriations that under a genuine budget system would be more effectively attended to by a single appropriations committee having the whole subject in charge, there is evidently a great waste of time and energy, all to the detrimnt of true legislative service."

By EDGAR A. GUEST

AN OLD MAN DISCUSSES MAR-RIED LIFE.

Lord, we've had our little wrangles,
An' we've had our little bouts, There's many a time, I reckon, that we've been on the outs;
My tongue's a little hasty an' my tem-per's a little fiery.

An' Mother, let me tell you, has a sting in her reply.
But I couldn't live without her, an'
that's plain as plain as can be.
That in fair or sunny weather mother needs a man like me.

I've banged the door an' muttered angry words beneath my breath,
For at times when she's scolding, Mother's plagued me most to death.

But we've always laughed it over,
When we'd both cooled down a bit,
An' we've never had a difference but a smile would settle it.
An' if such a thing could happen, we could share life's joys an' tears
An' live right on together for another thousand years.

Some men give up too easy in the game of married life.
They haven't got the courage to be the worthy of a wife.
An' I've seen a lot of women that have made their lives a mess, Cuz they couldn't bear the burdens that are piled with happiness.

So long as folks are human they'll have many faults that jar,
An' the way to live with people is to take them as they are.

We've been forty years together, good an' bad, an' rain an' shine, I've forgotten mother's faults an' she never mentions mine.
In the days when sorrow struck us an'
we shared a common woe
We just leaned upon each other, an'
our weakness didn't show.

An' I've learned how much I need her,
An' I've learned how much I need her,
An' through it, maybe, mother saw the better side o' me.

CAPE MAY COUNTY
If you travel by boat from Philadelphia to New York, Cape May County is a part of the trip. It is the southernmost tip of New Jersey.
It projects like a horn into the coastal waters, which, next to those of Sandy Hook, carry most traffic.

Cape May is an addition to being a point of land projecting into the water, it is a county. As such, here in the of-fete east, it throws down the gauntlet to any other county in the union for that quality supposed to be peculiar to the west. Cape May county is wild. It is unbroken, uninhabited, unsubdued.
Beasts prowl about its wastes, deer bound through its thickets. All the creations of the wood and bush live unmolested in its solitudes, while huntmen from nearby cities cross the continent for a shot at other creatures of their kind.

The game wardens of Cape May county are Jersey mosquitoes in the summer, and tangled, impenetrable jungle at all times. So all that stretch of land between Delaware bay and the Atlantic, which is in halling distance of New York and at the front door of Philadelphia, is still left to the creatures that inhabited it when Henry Hudson first sailed this way.

The only exception to Cape May's wildness are a few pleasure settlements along the sandy ocean front, that escape the mosquito plague. They are Ocean City, Sea Isle City, and Cape May—dabs of prosperous and fashionable American life on the edge of a primitive American wilderness.

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

BY K. MOUTON

Ex Binks found that farmin' is not so blamed charmin' and that it's not restful a bit.

A man may stay healthy and slowly grow wealthy, but there's too much work mixed in it.

He started to dreamin' and plannin' and schemin' to find a way to get rich quick.

For arduous tolin', when weather was bollin' made him good and properly sick.

The neighbors decided, but Ezra decided as how he might jes' bout as well.

Stop work altogether in hot summer weather and take life easy a spell.

The old farm he altered and he never failed when Aggerin' on the expense.

He spent almost fifty to make it a nifty resort and results were in money.

Now Ez was a meller and comical feller—a great entertainer as well.

It seemed like a pity how folks from the city and folks that seemed purty blamed swell.

Would spend their good money for meals that were funny and rooms that were stuffy and small.

But they kept arrivin' and Ez kept invitin' 'twas crowded from spring until fall.

No one made a holler when he charged a dollar for one glass of nearly lead tea.

They seemed to be willin' to pay 15 shillin' a night for a cot 'neath a tree.

Now Ez has a million, he hopes for his present rate.

His wealth is increasin' and he is still floccin' the folks who think they're up-to-date.

A Pittsburg minister says he would rather see the women going about the streets nude than dressed the way they now are. Well, maybe he would at that.

Many a young man goes away to college to get a liberal education while his old man stays at home and gets an education on liberality.

Well, if they do prohibit tobacco we can still smoke the same sort of cigars that have been getting since the war started.

A WOMAN NEVER KNOWS HER OWN MIND.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry M. Vaughn at Surmeston, Brackley, announced for TODAY (Tuesday), is POSTPONED.

Personal in London Times.

At one of our favorite eating places yesterday we noticed a new sign: "Beef Sandwiches, 15 Cents."

The price, formerly had been 10 cents. Asked as to the reason, the proprietor said: "They have raised the price of beef three cents a pound."

Nothing but an answer ready in case one is required.

ANOTHER IMMORTAL?

"He was taken to the hospital, charged with ATTEMPTING to commit suicide."

Portland Cleans Up Russian Section

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Portland, Ore.—The rainbow of bolshevist rule in Russia must have tipped its end in Portland, but no pot of gold was discovered. Instead, the Russian section here, police and health department officials found such a deplorable state of affairs that they ordered a clean-up.

Pitch, chaos and disorder reigned supreme, and under penalty of arrest the Russians were told to "straighten their house."

The action followed an investigation of the district for many days.

Voice of the People

To the Editor:

I would just like to make a few remarks to the property owners of Janesville.

Do you think you are doing the fair thing by the people who are coming here to help make Janesville a bigger and better city? Are you doing the fair thing when you, who have houses and flats to rent, two or three years ago rented those houses and flats for $27 and $29 a month, and now you have the nerve to ask $40 and $42 for the same houses and flats? Is that square to the people that are coming here? I know this to be a fact and unless things take a change soon something must be done. Are the people that are renting houses going to pay nearly every cent they earn for rent? You say taxes are higher, coal is higher, we have to charge more rent. If you need more to make ends meet, where is the poor laboring man going to get off? At the cemetery, if some one doesn't look into this matter, it seems it is the rich over the poor wherever one goes nowadays. Is there no equal this side of the grave?

Well, you may get uneasy for fear you will not get a town south of Janesville. I think it would be a fair deal all around, for then men employed at the Samsen plant could rent houses to live in. I think Janesville needs something like that to pay them for what they have been doing ever since the Samsen came to the city.

You property owners agreed to do your share. Have you done a good, upright, Christian act when you have soaked the people as you have? I never saw such profiteering in my life. I think it would be the best thing that ever happened if some one would build a town adjoining this city. It would perhaps take a little of the profiteering pop out of the property owners' eyes in Janesville, especially those who have houses and flats to rent. If it is the real estate agents that are to blame, let us hope our adjoining new city will buy a lot of new real estate men before they get hard-boiled, some that will not want $8,000 for a place and gradually come down to $5,000. Who was going to reap that $2,000. I think we need a town on the south, in fact on all sides.

SAMSON-BARB GAME ON SAMSON DIAMOND

The Samson Tractor-Barb Wire game will be played at the new Samson park tomorrow afternoon instead of at the fair grounds as was at first planned, it was announced today.

Activities will start at 2:30 with George Berger on the mound for the Samsonies and Alie Bick performing on the high line for the Barbiers.

Although the game has no effect on the industrial league standings, as all scheduled games have been played, it will virtually decide the holder of second place in the minds of fans. The game was finished in a tie for second honors and the game tomorrow is in the nature of a deciding contest, the winner to meet the Parker Per champions in a series of three games at the fair grounds. Admission will be charged to this series to provide funds for a league banquet later.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I came here last week ago after having a row with my father. My home is in Chicago where he and my brother are in business. I am a graduate last month, and now because I do not want to further in school he insists that I leave the business.

I hate manufacturing. I want to go to an aviation school, but he will not listen to it or anything else I suggest. So I helped myself to funds and left. If he misses the money he knows who took back, only he will not see this letter, so he will not know where to locate me.

Can he actually force me to learn the business at the moment? I do not see how he can make me take an interest in it when I detest every bit of it.

The only thing that he will consent to is college, but not meant to leave in less than another thing I detest. The truth of it is, he wants to run me just as he runs my brother. I want something to say myself. Isn't that perfectly all right before I go broke, but I like it here so long as my money holds out. They won't worry much. My mother took her hat fever to the pines in Michigan and my aunt arrived on top with her rheumatism and liver pills, to look after things in general, but me in particular. I happen to know she loves me about as much as an attack of indigestion. So I am simply saving her a lot of unnecessary worry. Besides, I have gone away before, only I am going to stay longer this time.

If I could choose a course in engineering I would not mind college so much. But it looks as if I have no right to say anything. There seems to be two chances for me, either to be a perfectly rotten lawyer or a slave to the factory. I would rather be a chauffeur than either.

Don't you think I do that I ought to have some chance? Or do you agree with my father that at least until I am 21 I should be under his thumb? I will be glad to hear your ideas.

You have forgotten your responsibility to yourself. We are all given an opportunity to see what we can do with our own characters. No one is going to help you without obstacles. Your obstacle is your father's strong will. I do think he has made a mistake in driving you along lines which do not interest you in the least. It is a common thing? To be a thief is a very serious matter, and unless you change your methods in life you will spoil it completely and be branded as a criminal.

Do not go home until you have worked out the wrong you have done. Get a position and work to the utmost with the idea of paying your father every cent you stole. When he sees that you can take care of yourself when you are given freedom, he will be willing that you should stay where you are, working out your life in a better way than he could guide you.

I have confidence that you will see your mistake and will want to go to all that you are a man of character and honor.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girls 14 years of age and are in love with two boys. We are both wanted to go riding and we refused. Now they are angry. What shall we do? MILLY AND MOLLY.

You are altogether too young to go riding with boys. Let them be angry if they want to.

SAND AND BROWN SHADES COMBINE IN SMART FROCK

By ELOISE.

The one-piece informal afternoon frocks for the coming season are made of such gorgeous and costly materials that they need little trimming or ornamentation of any kind. The frocks of this nature which one will purchase now will be bought with the idea in view that they may be worn in any season, for although it is getting too late for the real flimsy and sheer summer frock it is almost too early to buy the fall or winter gown. It is not difficult to buy one of these "between season" frocks in this day of such wide choice as to materials and designs. In fact, the stability of designs which has remained for several seasons now and the absence of any radical and decided changes has made this quite easy.

Here is one of the smartest afternoon frocks which a Fifth Avenue shop is showing. It is a pleasing combination of sand colored silk and wood brown palette. The novel cord which is a whimsical thing for it may be adjusted so as to lend a long or short-waisted effect. The link gilet of cream colored Chantilly lace with a row of tiny brown buttons for trimming. A practical feature of the frock is the use of the dark palette forming the bottom part of the sleeves. This idea, while used for a designer's reason, will save many a cleaner's bill. The one-piece gown like this, of tri-collette, palette, satin or taffeta makes a most appropriate costume for nialnee, restaurant or informal calls.

TOMATO RECIPES.
Ramekin Tomatoes—Six tomatoes, one small onion, one-half pint cream or white sauce.
Scald and peel small tomatoes. Put a tablespoonful of the white sauce into the bottom of each ramekin dish and spread with mustard cup, then the tomato and the remaining sauce over the top, sprinkling the whole with chopped parsley and the green onion. Stand the dishes in a baking pan and bake in a moderate oven half an hour.
Escalloped Tomatoes—Six tomatoes, buttered crumbs, salt, pepper, sugar, onion grated.
Sprinkle bottom of buttered baking pan with buttered crumbs; cover with tomatoes, peeled and sliced; sprinkle with salt, pepper and a bit of sugar, if preferred sweet, and a few drops of grated onion. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake over a medium flame, until crumbs are brown.
Tomatoes Stuffed with Pineapple—Tomatoes, salt, pineapple, walnut or pecan meats, mayonnaise dressing, lettuce leaves.
Peel medium sized tomatoes, remove a thin slice from the top of each and take out seeds and some of the pulp. Sprinkle inside with salt, invert and let stand to drain for half an hour. Cut sufficient fresh pineapple in small cubes to fill the cavities and combine with walnut or pecan meats in mayonnaise dressing and fill tomatoes.
Garnish with halves of nut meats and serve on bed of lettuce leaves.
Tomatoes Browned—Four tomatoes, one large tablespoon butter, one teaspoonful salt, pepper, parsley.
Select smooth small tomatoes, wash, put into the saucepan and cover with cold water; bring water to a boil and keep boiling at a gallop for about 10 minutes or until the tomatoes are tender when pierced with a fork. Remove carefully with a skimmer to a hot platter. With a sharp pointed knife cut out the little hard stem and across the top of each. Turn or roll back a little of the outside skin and pour over and around the tomatoes, the butter and seasonings carefully melted by standing in hot water. Chop parsley very fine and sprinkle the top of each tomato. Garnish the dish with nice bunches of parsley at each end.
The tomato flavor is very delicious when cooked in this manner.

DISCOVERIES.
Damask Laundry Bags—Old damask made into laundry bags and dyed to match the room's color scheme adds wonderfully to the appearance of a bedroom.
Banana Marmalade—Bananas make excellent marmalade, especially those that are only medium ripe.

Snakes of Snake Run Keep Minister Busy
Renoeverte, W. V.—Snake Run, some few miles back in the wilds from here, is well named, according to the Rev. H. B. Stoneham. The clergyman conducted services there Sunday. While on his way to the Sunday school a little boy discovered a large yellow rattlesnake which was killed. After church services began a larger rattler was found near the door. Coming home another rattler was seen and killed. At the home where the minister dined a child saw a copperhead sticking his head through a knothole and grasped it. The snake was killed in time to save the child. The same day in the same place a rattler with eighteen rings was killed.

SIDE TALKS —By— RUTH CAMERON

The People To Blame
In the woman's rest room of a certain large city bank there used to be several telephones which the customers of the bank were allowed to use free of charge. But the privilege has lately been withdrawn.

I suppose that is on account of the higher cost of telephone service. I said to the matron in charge.

"No," she said, "not so much that as because our customers took advantage of the privilege. They were all supposed to use the service in moderation, but there were some women who would spend an hour telephoning every day. It came to this. So we really had to give it up."

How often that happens! Because some abuse a privilege, others who would not abuse it lose it.

Think of Deserving an Orphan
Here's another example. As you doubtless know, a certain charitable society has given opportunity to many thousands of people to adopt French orphans by paying $3 a month for their support. But in the future, anyone who wishes to do this will have to pay the whole amount—that is, $36—in advance. This is partly because so many people who had pledged the $3 a month didn't redeem their pledges.

Now there are a great many people who could pay the $3 a month but not the $36 in advance. And it means either that their money will go into a general fund and they cannot have an orphan of their own (and, because they will be apt to lose interest) or that they will give the thing up altogether. And part of the blame for that rests on those who failed to redeem their pledges. What "Smithy" Did For The Parole System

Here's an example of the opposite.

Many years ago a certain humane prison warden had in his care a prisoner whom the story calls Smithy for convenience sake. Smithy, who was one of the hardest cases in the prison, received a telegram that his father was dead. The warden considered letting a sheriff take Smithy to the funeral, but he knew how little comfort to Smithy's mother that would be. So he made up his mind to try the great experiment. He gave Smithy leave for 24 hours and put him on his honor.

When Smithy went out of that prison, the future of the parole system in that prison went with him. If he failed to reappear, hundreds of men who have since enjoyed its benefits would have suffered. But he did not fail and never a man of all the hundreds since then who have been allowed the parole privilege, because Smithy justified his first trial, have failed. If they did fail, the warden declares, the other prisoners would make them regret it.

Or Else Emigrate To A Desert Island
No one who breaks a rule or abuses a privilege ought to feel that he does it to himself alone. It is not possible to do that, so long as we live in a world with other people. So remember, when you are tempted to brave whatever penalty may descend upon your own head for the breaking of some rule, that your responsibility does not end there.

Bank Burglars Prove Nothing But Shadows

Gettysburg, Pa.—Mysterious shadows in the main room of the Gettysburg National bank and the noise of an explosion, reported by several persons recently, gave rise to the rumor that the institution was being robbed. State police stationed nearby were summoned, county officers and the borough force were called to the scene.

After an investigation it developed that the mysterious shadows seen in the bank were projected from a club which is located on the second floor of the adjoining building. The explosion was explained later when it was learned that a large can of dynamite in the cellar of a nearby hotel had exploded.

MURKLY "CASES."
Then the doctor came—a boyish person in a clean white duck uniform. He walked in briskly, but with a weary, bored air, and started down a considerable time, reading the record and chart that hung at the head of each and doing perfunctory things to the patient—taking temperature, counting pulse, feeling, listening at chest, holding wrists. The nurse accompanied him, putting in a word here and there. Would he ever get to Bernice's bed? And yet, another doctor who looked over some of these others who looked even more ill than her own loved one. Suddenly Bernard opened his eyes, fever-bright and glassy. He looked at Annie, who got up quickly to the head of the bed. "Oh, my dear—speak to me, Bern," she whispered, pressing her hand upon his hot forehead.

"Where—what—why it's you, Ann," said Bernice, bewildered. "Then, as remembrance came back, he went on more steadily: "Why do I have to be here, Ann? It's a devilish place. I hate it. I want to go home again."

"The doctor's coming. I want to ask him all about you. And if it's—his suit and all right, you shall come home, Bern," said Ann, who came home, Bern, look at Robert. See the color he's got!"

Bernard looked at his little son, but his gaze grew more vague and wandered back to Annie.

"They don't treat me right here. No one does anything. I'm all right, I tell you, and I'm going back to work."

The young interne and the nurse came up, the former nodding perfunctory to Annie.

"Well, how are we getting along?" she greeted Bernice.

"I'm all right," repeated Bernard, half sitting up in bed. The young doctor pushed him back, saying not unkindly, "There, there, young man, you've got to take a rest. You can go to work."

Persons handling metal parts going from machine shops and persons working on parts with machines using lubricating oils or compounds commonly suffer with pimples and boils which sometimes become troublesome enough to disable a worker.

These pimples and boils on the hands and arms are caused by infection with pus-producing germs in the cutting mixture or lubricating compound employed. There is no "poison" in the oil or lubricant originally; the "poison" that is the pus-producing germs being contributed to the mixture by some worker, who comes in contact with the lubricant while having pimples or boils in the millions of the germs are present in the effect of various paraffin oils and greases used for lubrication in metal work is injurious to the skin of workers because of the fat-dissolving action of these oils. The skin with natural fat or oil dissolved out, becomes dry, harsh, cracked and peels. This condition obviously is infection if there be pus-producing germs in the oil.

Various thoughtless habits of workers contribute to the spread of such infections—wiping the hands on waste used by more than one individual or using rags or towels indiscriminately; ignoring the proper first aid treatment of cutting punctures or abrasions; applying to slight wounds or sores some alleged "healing" salve which itself harbors pus-producing germs from some previous user or from some one employed where the "salve" is prepared.

Through the operations of a personnel department from the United States public health service, the working conditions of the United States Government of labor now undertakes to study the conditions in a plant where undue infection prevails and to make recommendations and the multi-million phases of labor administration. This is a free service rendered by various district directors in different parts of the country. The labor department has issued a free bulletin dealing with the matter of infection from lubricants, which may be obtained by application to the department of labor, Washington, D. C. From a publication of the labor department I quote: "The working condition service of the U. S. department of labor desires to help any industry with any problems in industrial health, medical and surgical organization and education, and the multi-million phases of labor administration. As a government agency it is in a position to render non-partisan, impartial findings and advice. Since the work of the service is not upon the mercenary basis, the element of financial interest will not interfere with its scientific work. The one purpose which the working conditions service seeks to further is the improvement of working conditions."

Alkali in Soap Bad For the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use. One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

NATURE'S MIRROR

When a woman is well and healthy—there's a sparkle in her eyes, a rose tint in her cheeks, and she has rich red blood. There's elasticity in every movement and a spring in her step. Love comes to every woman who has bounding health—but when she is pallid, dull eyed, languid, she has no magnetism nor does she appeal to any man.

Such a change in feelings and looks!

After suffering pain, feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged down by weaknesses of her sex—with eyes sunken, black circles and pale cheeks—such a woman is quickly restored to healthy by the Favorite Prescription of Dr. Pierce. Changed, too, in looks, for after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription the skin becomes clear, the eyes brighter, the cheeks plump. It is purely vegetable, contains no alcohol.

Dinner Stories

Col. "Bill" Hayward of New York's Fighting Fifteenth regiment is a rival of Irvin Cobb as a story teller. Here is one of his latest:

During the early days of the Fifteenth Infantry's sojourn in France some of the men were used to carry up ammunition to the artillery. At first each man carried only one shell, but as the need became more pressing they undertook heavier loads, until many of them were staggering under the weight of four or five of them. Finally one of the soldiers whose back was bent from the task stepped up to his sergeant and asked:

"Sergeant, how you all got my name on this list?" he cried, holding up a list.

"I've got it all right," replied the sergeant. "You're Private Simpson, ain't you?"

"Yes, sir," answered the ammunition carrier. "But how you all got my name spelled?"

"Why, S-i-m-p-s-o-n," replied the sergeant.

"That's right," answered the soldier, wiping the sweat from his brow. "I thought maybe you had it down Samson."

A farmer whose orchard is near a school for boys was annoyed by the depredations of the youngsters. Finding two boys helping themselves to his apples, he escorted them of the orchard, giving each a peeling kick at the gateway. Next day the boys were loitering near his orchard again.

"What are you scamps hanging around here for?" he cried, as he caught up to them.

"Yes, sir, we remember," said the spokesman. "We haven't come for apples this time. We came back to ask you to join our football team."

THE WISHING PLANE

Jack and Jane had arrived in the little Swiss village when it was its prettiest—summertime. The little fields were just like bright green oceans. Flowers of all shades, from purest white to bright red, bordered the fields and almost hid the houses. The hay in the meadows was almost ready for cutting. Swiss people are very careful with their meadows for without the hay the cattle would starve to death over the long, cold winters.

Above the meadow lands, on the mountain sides, Jack and Jane saw great forests. They seemed to keep the snow away from the little valleys.

"On one side of the woods there is winter and on the other its summer," said Jack as he gazed up the mountain sides.

"That's really so," said Captain Brave. "Tourists who come here can remain in the valleys or they can stay at the hotels up in the mountains where the snow is real winter weather, with coasting and skiing. The Swiss government takes good care of the forests, partly to protect the folks in the valleys. You see, sometimes the mountains break loose and slide down the mountain sides. As they go along they start more snow and ice until thousands of tons are rushing down towards the valleys below. If it were not for the forests the snow would come straight down to the little villages, crush houses and kill hundreds of people. But the snow can't push through the forests. So it has to stop, through the trees, and the government allowed folks to cut down the forests everyone else would be in danger. But Nothing Like Plain Bitter-Phosphate to Put on Firm, Healthy Flesh and to Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force.

"When one stops to consider the host of thin people who are searching continually for some method by which they may increase their flesh to normal proportions by the eating out of ugly hollows, the rounding off of protruding angles with the attendant bloom of health and attractiveness, it is no wonder that many and varied suggestions along this line appear from time to time in the public prints."

While excessive thinness might be attributed to various and subtle causes in different individuals, it is a well-known fact that the lack of sufficient phosphorus in the human system is very largely responsible for this condition. Experiments on humans and animals by many scientists have demonstrated beyond question that a body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and thin. A noted author and professor in his book "Chemistry and Food Nutrition," published in 1918, says: "It is a fact that the amount of phosphorus required for the normal nutrition of man is seriously underestimated in many of our standard text books."

It seems to be well established that this deficiency in phosphorus may now be met by the use of an organic phosphate, known as Bitter-Phosphate. Through the assimilation of this phosphate a body deficient in phosphorus becomes nervous, sickly and thin. fields are green each summer the cattle and sheep are driven up to them and are kept there while the hay on the meadows down below is allowed to ripen and then is harvested for the winter.

"Some day we'll go up to one of the pastures and visit the shepherd who watches over the animals all summer long while they are feeding up there," said Ladydear.

Jack was interested in the forests, sheep, shepherds and other things, but he was more interested in what Captain Brave had said about coasting places and what skiing was. "You'll have to wait until tomorrow," said the captain, "to hear what the captain told him."

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of John Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today if it not for the deadly drug Nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the tobacco habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and let the pernicious habit quickly vanish. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the dangers of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result.

Pleasant Fields Of Holy Writ

THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
Third Quarter; Lesson VIII; Acts I & II
XIV 8-30; August 17, 1919.
Golden Text: Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to the whole creation. Mark XVI 15.

CHRISTIAN MISSIONS.
If there was one person above another that might be excused from going to hear Paul preach, it was that unlucky, unfortunate, the cripple at Lystra. Perhaps unlike his fellow at the Gate Beautiful, he was not a public mendicant. If so, he would naturally shrink from the display of his infirmity. Again, he might say: "The throne will be sure to press between me and the speaker, so as to mar my pleasure." or, "I have too little physical strength to endure the strain of listening to the discourse." Much smaller hindrances than club-foot and withered limbs keep people away from the courts of the Lord's house today. * * * But none of these things deterred him. The text says, "The same heard Paul speak; but it should read, 'He kept hearing Paul speak.'" His hearing was not accidental, but designed; not occasional, but continuous. He said to friends each morning: "Carry me to where I can hear this stranger speak." There he sat, day after day, his beaming countenance seeming to say: "Tell me more about Jesus." * * * No captious questions were on his lips. He was a child—docile, trusting, loving.
He took the gospel in just as the tree does the wedge-shaped twig after the arboriculturist's inclusion. He received with meekness the ingrained word. * * * Paul kept his eye upon his hopeful hearer. He poured forth the story of the healing miracles of Jesus—how he cleansed lepers, made the blind see, the deaf hear, and even the lame walk. At length he read the unmistakable signs in the poor man's countenance that he had faith, not as our version has it, in be healed; but as in the original, in be saved, soul and body. Then Paul cried, "Stand upright!" Neither the apostle nor the cripple was disappointed. His mental and physical abilities were gone at the same instant.
* * * Paul in his missionary journeys touched human life in a great variety of conditions—refined and unrefined, educated and illiterate. In this instance he came in contact with the wild fanaticism of a rustic prodigy.
They had tradition that Jupiter and Mercury had once, in human form, visited their country, whose very name perpetuated the legend. The people failed to recognize them and do them reverence, and were punished by having their city burned up, and their king charged into a wolf. The Lystians of Paul's day proposed to smarter than their ancestors. They hustled to offer divine homage. Here came the priests with garlanded oxen.

Paul is taken unawares. All the talk about the gods had been in the verbacular into which the people had fallen in the intensity of their feeling.
Neither what they were saying, nor what they intended, was understood.
* * * Unlike lived in the amphitheatre at Caesarea under similar circumstances, the apostle enters their vehement disclaimer: "Stop! we are only men, exactly like yourselves. Our very object in coming is to turn you away from the vain fictions of Jupiter and Mercury, to serve the God that really lives, whose handiwork is all about us in heaven, earth, and sea." * * * There is a sudden, complete revelation of feeling in the multitude, illustrating well the fickleness of our degenerate humanity. As once the cry "Crucify!" followed among the Jews of Jerusalem, in the streets of Jerusalem, so now stones take the place of crosses. In the long inventory of his sufferings, Paul says: "Once was I stoned." * * *

THE TEACHER'S LANTERN.

We have here a remarkable instance of Paul's extemporaneous talent in addressing himself to his ever-shifting auditory. He quotes no Hebrew Scripture to the rustics of the "White land," but cites them to the book of nature, open before their eyes, and fastens the conviction upon them that they were not doing as well as even it taught them. * * * Among the endless volumes instructing preachers how to preach, one telling the people how to hear is a desideratum. The Lystians' cripple is an ideal hearer.
The gospel is a remedy for all. It may not always straighten club-feet and strengthen withered limbs, but remove the thorn and cure, but it never fails to supply grace sufficient. It helps to the submission which cries:
"Even so, Father; for thus it seemeth
good in Thy sight." * * * The sincerity and loyalty of the apostles has a beautiful exemplification. They look upon the submission which cries:
"Even so, Father; for thus it seemeth
good in Thy sight." * * * The sin-
beautiful exemplification. They look
upon the submission which cries:
"Even so, Father; for thus it seemeth good in Thy sight." * * * of unrepentant sinners is ever a dubious compliment. It is as fickle as it is dubious. * * * The scene at Lystra recurs in every generation. The moral lesson must ever be the same. If not stones. Sometimes, like Paul, he lies prostrate, lifeless indeed. He'll laugh is short; for, like Paul, the reformer rises and rebukes his work, or if not in very person, some one takes his place. The apostolic succession may be broken, but the noble line of moral reformers is not. * * * This first missionary journey, in spite of contradiction, blasphemy, expulsion, and stoning, was a glorious success. The door of faith was opened wide for the Gentiles. * * * From Derbe, the shortest and safest way home would have been via Tarsus, with all its attractions for the heart of Paul. But the apostles heroically turned backward on their course; for new converts are to be confirmed, and exhorted to continue through tribulation, and elders are to be ordained. * * * Here is a fine illustration of the point at which Paul ceased to be "all things unto all men." A principle was involved.

He could not for an instant receive Divine honors from these rustics, even with the motive of using it as a means of maintaining his ascensions. He might later enable him to further enlighten them. Though this should be the only avenue to their evangel-ization, he will not take it. It is no mild-mannered protest he makes. The moment he copies the garlanded victims, and divides the purpose of the priest and the people, with rent garments and loud cry he hurries himself into the van of the sacrificial procession, asserting the thorough genuineness of his human nature.

HOW DO MEN SELL THEIR HERI- TAGES?

The sin and folly of Esau is being repeated every day by his kindred and those who are quickest to condemn him for a fool are committing his folly. The boy does it when he drops out of school to get rid of his discipline.
Another sells his health for monetary gain. The drunkard sells his home for drink. The catalogue of bad bargains is interminable. The devil is a clever auctioneer. He talks up his wares and many bid at his market.

DISPOSAL OF THRACE TO AVOID "CRAZY QUILT," PUZZLING

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Paris, Thursday, Aug. 14.—The supreme council of the peace conference is industriously studying various plans suggested for a division of Thrace in such a manner as to be acceptable to Greece and Bulgaria as well as England and France, which are vitally interested in the disposition to be made of European Turkey.

A dozen different plans for the dividing and disposing of Thrace have been considered during the last week, but the one most likely to be accepted as a compromise, although opposed by Greece, contemplates an interna-tionalized zone extending from the Bulgarian border to Dedeagatch on the Aegean.

Western Thrace would go to Greece and the world also be given a strip eastward from Dedeagatch, extending from the Aegean to the Black sea, including the port of Midia. The territory immediately about Constantinople would go to the country receiving the mandate there.

This plan violates the rights of majorities and separates districts to be given to Greece, but it is apparently impossible to reach an agreement on any plan which would make this region less of a crazy quilt. The plan gives Adrianople to Greece, which is regarded as unsatisfactory as that city is considered sacred by the Mohammedans.

Former Pool Acreage for Oil Drilling

Mount Ridge, Kan.—Contrary to the usual methods of farmers, who oppose all oil drilling and prefer to lease, a dozen farmers living southeast of town have pooled their acreage —5,000 acres—and are offering it to any individual, group, or corporation that will drill. They offer an undivided half interest.

Holds Court in Movie House and Uses Films As Evidence

Fort Wayne, Ind.—Probably for the first time in the history of American jurisprudence, court was held in a motion picture theater here and silent evidence was thrown upon the screen.
Superior court adjourned to the film playhouse, and after the ballist's "Oyez, oyez!" had announced the opening of court films purporting to show later threats by authors with the operation of the Bowser & Co. oil tank works were shown. Judge William Ballou watched the screen testimony with studious attention from a front row seat. Afterward trial was resumed at the court house in a case in which the tank company sought to explain the striking employees from molesting their workers.

Janesville Chamber of Commerce Boosts Baseball

By George McManus.

UNANIMOUS SUPPORT OF TEAM URGED

Baseball in Janesville received two big boosts yesterday and as a result stock advanced about 1 1/2 points and a packed grand stand Sunday became assured. The first boost, by far the more important of the two, came when the Chamber of Commerce announced that it was wholeheartedly in sympathy with efforts to put Janesville on the baseball map and issued a letter of approval to Manager Murphy urging that citizens be encouraged to support the team by attending the games.

The other shove came when Manager Murphy succeeded in signing Pete Brausen of Waukegan, big league infielder of no small amount of fielding and batting ability. Brausen was discharged from the service last Saturday. During his term of service in France he played an infield position in the champion "Erie" team. He is the property of the Washington club of the American league having been sold to them by Providence, R. I., of the International league, at the close of the 1917 season. He enlisted during the following winter so did not play in the American league last year.

Tickets going fast. Manager Murphy announces that the ticket sale for the booster game with Manitowish here Sunday is going strong. He will continue the canvass throughout the week.

A scoreboard will be hanging in the grandstand tomorrow. This is something that fans have missed since the season opened. Women may now attend the games and know what the fuss is all about when the score stands 1 to 0 against Janesville and Kakuske drives out a triple with the sacks loaded.

The letter of approval which Manager Murphy secured from the Chamber of Commerce will be read with interest by all fans. It follows:

"Responding to your recent request, we desire to assure you that we are wholeheartedly in sympathy with your effort to make baseball a success in Janesville, and your energy and enterprise in securing a place for Janesville in the Lake Shore league commands commendation and support.

"We believe a successful baseball team is a real asset to a city, and that such a team gains for a city worth-while publicity.

"We do urge that the business men and citizens generally, particularly those who are identified with the Chamber of Commerce, support you in your worthy effort to make Janesville a winner in the league by attending the games.

"We understand that on Sunday next the Manitowish team, one of the best in the league, is to be your opponent here, and we believe that Janesville should make standing room a premium as testimony of their appreciation of what is being done in a baseball way for the city.

"You may, if you wish, leave tickets at our office, which will be distributed to the best of our ability."

Cordially yours,
Chamber of Commerce,
Frank J. Green, Mgr.

Motorboat Confiscated.
La Crosse.—The need of uniform game laws covering the waters between Minnesota and Wisconsin again became apparent when a $500 motorboat was confiscated by Game Warden Herman Rackow, Winona, when he arrested Peter Meizer, La Crosse, for illegal selling. His father, Peter Meizer, has begun suit to get the boat back, claiming it is his property. The case will be tried in the district court at Caledonia, Minn., in October. Rackow has been active in his work near La Crosse and up to date has arrested a large number of offenders.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Prohibition Aids Racing

The exit of the saloon in this country is the biggest boost the racing has ever received, according to advocates of the American Jockey club, the national controlling body of the running horse sport in this country. The magnates of racing declare many states will be in need of additional funds to make up the amount which they received from the liquor traffic, and legalized racing, or rather racing under commission farm will provide a substantial sum of this money.

It is expected that within six months proposed measures legalizing Pari-Mutuel machine betting at race tracks, will be up for consideration in the legislatures and assemblies of a half dozen states. Ohio, New York, Michigan, West Virginia and Illinois are said to be in line now, with Iowa and Missouri deeply interested.

Racing men point to the success of the law in Maryland and Kentucky, which legalizes the use of the Pari-Mutuel machines and provides the state agricultural association shall derive a percentage of all moneys wagered. Both states are said to have model gambling laws and since they were placed on the statute books no abuses have been noted.

New York legislators have had several opportunities to adopt the legalized form of betting since the Hughes crusade which knocked the "sport of kings" out there some years ago. Heretofore certain reform organizations have protested liberal measures that would encourage racing. It is said the state gains little or no revenue from the racing as it is conducted in New York now, because none other than oral betting is done and only private bookmakers or individuals profit.

With legalized betting on horse racing in a half dozen states instead of just two states, would finally bring about a revival of interest in the breeding game which is badly needed, according to the United States department of agriculture in a recent report. The laws proposed in Ohio, Michigan and New York will be framed to include harness racing as well as running races.

WILLIE MEEHAN IS EAGER TO TACKLE CHAMPION DEMPSEY

Willie Meehan in fighting pose.

Pacific coast ring fans hope that Willie Meehan will be given a chance at Jack Dempsey at the earliest possible moment. Willie wants the chance, too. Meehan has two victories to his credit over the Giant Killer.

SPORT SNAP-SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE.

As a result of the vigilance of the officials of the Giants, the gambling element which frequents one section of the Polo grounds grand stand is rapidly being reduced in numbers. A close watch is kept on the turnstiles of the park and notorious handbook makers are detected and denied admission, while other members of the two-bit fraternity, apprehended in making book in the stand, are promptly ejected and warned to remain away from the park. In the last three days three well known gamblers who formerly have been active at the Polo grounds have been rudely thrust through the exits and solemnly advised not to attempt to come back.

The vigorous campaign now being waged in the interest of the fans and of the game itself. Professional gamblers cannot be permitted to identify themselves with the national pastime, and the following of noisy bettors which they invariably draw have no place in a crowd of genuine fans. The club officials are to be commended for their determined stand against this mob, and it is certain that their efforts are meeting with the approval of the general public.

Contrary to report, Fred Luderus, captain of the Philadelphia Nationals, broke Eddie Collins' "Iron Man" of the Major Leagues' record a few days ago. Luderus missed a single contest of the last 479 games played by his club. This beats Collins' record by exactly one game. Luderus began his consecutive playing streak on July 2, 1916, and has not missed a game in the National league in which the Phillies making book in the stand, are promptly ejected and warned to remain away from the park. In the last three days three well known gamblers who formerly have been active at the Polo grounds have been rudely thrust through the exits and solemnly advised not to attempt to come back.

Here are the batting and fielding marks of Luderus, while creating a new "Iron Man" of the Major Leagues' record: Games, 479; at bat, 1,779; runs, 191; hits, 484; two-base hits, 88; three-base hits, 30; home runs, 18; total bases on hits, 643; batting average, .283; putouts, 7,917; assists, 312; errors 67; fielding

BADGER PINE CONES TO BE SENT TO EUROPE

Madison, Aug. 15.—That Wisconsin will furnish a large part of the seeds for the reforestation of devastated Europe was indicated by Assemblyman P. N. Graess, Sturgeon Bay, in an interview today. The opening of the mails from Germany has already indicated, according to Mr. Graess, that orders will come to this country for the seed. Graess is an exporter of American live seeds.

"Devastated Europe looks to Wisconsin for her seeds to reforest," said Mr. Graess. "Wisconsin will supply them with chiefly white, Norway and jack pine, cedar, hemlock, basswood and acorns. These cones are picked in all the northern counties and shipped to Sturgeon Bay. The price paid for them runs from 50c to $3 a bushel. After the cones are received they are treated and put through a process that extracts the seeds, which are cleaned, tested and exported. Wisconsin this fall will furnish hundreds of carloads of pine cones to reforest Europe."

John Gansell, Brodhead, was in the village for a short time Wednesday. Painters are at work on the interior of S. E. Anderson's new house, and will complete it in a few days. Orfordville was given one way-freight Thursday. It arrived west-bound, about one o'clock.

The Orfordville ball team have arranged to play the Beloit H. S. "Red Bulls" at the Orfordville school ground Saturday afternoon. Considerable interest is manifest in the event, among fans.

New Map of Europe Free

The map of Europe as it looks since the surge of battle has subsided, since the nations of the world have gathered in conclave and arrived at what they hope will be a permanent peace, is offered free to the readers of the Gazette.

The old picture of Europe which was stamped in the public mind in its days of school attendance, is a thing of the past. In its place there is a new Europe. The old picture must be eradicated and the new one given its place. That this may be accomplished get the map of the mother continent as it has been rearranged, pin it on the wall above your desk, or in a conspicuous place in the living room at home. Your eye will subconsciously run over it now and again, and it is thoroughly fixed in your mind. Thus will you come to know the results of the recent great conflict.

It is made by the United States Geological survey, the official map-making agency of the government. Get Ahead! To accompany this map, both were specially manufactured for the Daily Gazette Information bureau at Washington. Fill out the attached coupon, close a two-cent stamp for return postage, and mail as indicated.
